

Resume Tailoring Learnings

Core Principles

- Maintain a clean global base resume in Markdown and treat every application resume as a role-specific derivative.
- Consolidate Hindustan Unilever under one parent section to show employer continuity and total scope, then keep role changes distinct underneath.
- Make role headers metric-led. The first scan should communicate scope, business impact, and seniority.
- Prefer recent, job-relevant awards over low-signal academic or generic extracurricular detail.
- Keep Markdown heading hierarchy clean because it affects PDF conversion quality.

Summary Rules

- The first sentence must explain the candidate in the language of the target role, not the previous role.
- Keep data-oriented, insight-driven marketing professional as a strong reusable anchor.
- Do not force brand-heavy summary language into growth, storefront, or analytics-led roles if it weakens fit.
- Use the strongest defensible experience framing. For 6+ years roles, 5+ years across HUL, Bain, and Nestle R&D is more accurate and stronger than underselling with only the HUL tenure.
- The summary should lead with the hiring pattern for the role:
 - Brand roles: premium positioning, partnerships, culture, media, storytelling.
 - Product / growth / storefront roles: generating new trials, improving retention & increasing lifetime value, experimentation, customer engagement, conversion.

Evidence Selection Rules

- Pull bullets upward when they directly mirror the JD keywords.

- De-emphasize backend analytics bullets unless they clearly connect to customer outcomes, experimentation, or business growth.
- Rephrase operational work into customer, conversion, merchandising, or decision-making impact where truthful.
- Mirror exact job language naturally when possible: for example A/B testing , customer engagement , cross-functional program execution , data quality , storefront strategies , earned-owned-paid storytelling .

Role-Fit Critique Rules

- If a user-specified phrase harms role fit, do not apply it blindly. Note the conflict and optimize for a submit-worthy resume.
- For Amazon and similar growth roles, a Bacardi-style summary is directionally wrong if it over-indexes on premium positioning and experiential activations.
- For lifestyle or premium brand roles, a PMM-style summary can sound too SaaS-like unless it is balanced with brand-building proof.

Quality Bar Before Submission

- Confirm all user non-negotiables are covered unless they directly conflict with role fit.
- Check for missing sections: contact block, summary, experience, skills, education, awards/leadership.
- Check for coherence issues such as conflicting seniority framing, duplicated headers, or mixed role narratives.
- Final resume should be skimmable in under 30 seconds and defensible in interview.